

Bedtime Story For The Little Ones

UNCLE WIGGILY MAKES THE FIRE

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Do you think you can look after yourself today, Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fussy. Wiggily, the muskrat lady housekeeper for Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman, as she stood in the doorway of the hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"Look after myself?" repeated Uncle Wiggily, quizzical like and interested. "Is anything going to happen? Is there a bad fox coming? If there is I'll look after myself and you too."

"Oh, nothing like that," said Nurse Jane with a laugh. "I mean I'm going away for the day—over to Mrs. Wibbly's to knit sweaters for the animal soldiers who are away at the front. I won't be back until night, and I've left enough for you to eat on the kitchen table. Do you think you can manage to get it?"

"I guess so," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll sit here a while and read and then I'll go walking and look for an adventure."

So Nurse Jane took her knitting with her and went over to the home of Mrs. Wibbly, the duck lady, leaving the bunny rabbit gentleman all by himself in the hollow stump bungalow.

At first Uncle Wiggily did nothing but sit and read the morning paper, about how much carrots and lettuce were going to cost in the winter. And reading this made the bunny feel rather hungry. So he said:

"I guess I'll go out in the kitchen and see what's to eat."

As he went out he began to feel a bit chilly, and, looking at the fire he found it had gone out. When he went out after Nurse Jane, or to see if it couldn't play a game of tag with the chimney on the roof I don't know. All I know is that the fire was out.

"And I must build it again, so it will blaze in the stove and make me warm, or the things in the bungalow will freeze," said Uncle Wiggily. "Yes, I must make the fire."

To see he had been so busy reading the paper that he had forgotten all about it.

So the bunny rabbit gentleman went down cellar and got some coal and wood and some old corn cobs to start the fire. Corn cobs are very good for starting a fire—almost as good as

Beauty Chats - By Edna Kent Forbes

Making Baby Pretty.

WHAT I really want to talk about today is not so much what to do to make the baby pretty, as what not to do—for most mothers err on the side of effort rather than neglect.

For instance, don't curl the baby's hair artificially just because curls are attractive and becoming. Hair that is curled on the iron drier and splits, and hair that is pulled tight on kids and rollers breaks, and often causes the child a lot of pain. Babies are pretty enough of themselves, without artificial help.

Don't dress the baby in a lot of fancy clothes. The very cornerstone of the child's appeal is simplicity, and fancy clothes destroy this effect. Don't ever dress the child in such a way that his clothes hamper his activities. It will grow and develop by unstrained exercise.

Don't let the child grow up thinking itself pretty—unless it is the most beautiful baby in the neighborhood. A pretty child ceases to be so once she knows it and acts accordingly.

For the rest, making the baby pretty is a matter entirely of health and hygiene, care of the diet and skin, to help the future complexion, care and cleanliness of the hair, to insure a future luxuriance, especially care of the teeth, the shape of the nose, the shape of the ears, the shape of the mouth, the shape of the chin, the shape of the neck, the shape of the shoulders, the shape of the arms, the shape of the hands, the shape of the feet, the shape of the ankles.

Don't let the child grow up with a bad nose, a bad nose can be modeled by the mother herself, by gently pressing those parts into the shape they should grow in. A doctor can show you how, if you feel you need instruction.

Miss M.—Try massage for the swelling, if you are quite convinced that it is not a matter of health. Massage is a general corrective, you know, because it stimulates the blood supply to the swollen part, bringing fresh, healthy blood and breaking up any wrong condition that may exist.

A. B. M.—You can only bleach the hair on the arms, as nothing like a depilatory would remove it permanently. Get a doctor to touch the waste with caustic to remove them.

Ruth P.—Send me a letter with a self-addressed envelope for a tonic for the eyebrows and lashes. Do you bathe the eyes with boracic acid solution?

Daily Novelette

DON'T BE RIDICULOUS.

CONGRESSMAN SIGNET RING looked lovingly at his wife through a cloud of smoke from his 50 cent Perminol pipe.

"Quebec," he said, "you're the greatest little wife that ever was and I want you to know I appreciate you."

"Why, Signet, how nice of you," purred Mrs. Ring, as she rose and smoothed his hair and put a pillow under his feet.

"It's true, Quebec," went on her husband firmly. "You keep the house looking as neat as a new born pin, and when it comes to cooking, I defy any French chef to equal your good old-fashioned French cooking. Your potatoes and your mince pies, your turkey legs, or for that matter, your camellia buds."

"Why, Signet," cooed Mrs. Ring, and she got up again and fixed his necktie and put another pillow under his feet.

"And then as for more practical matters, like the man that could hold a candle to you!" went on Congressman Ring, enthusiastically.

"I'll admit that. With the coat of living as high as it is, you actually save money! And you can keep books and drive a bargain like a regular Shylock Legree. And everybody says our children are the best behaved and the most intelligent in the neighborhood, and all thanks to you."

Mrs. Ring deftly put three more pillows under his feet.

"After that, Signet," she twinned. "I'm sure you'll be nice and work hard for the national suffrage amendment when you get back to the capitol."

"Don't be ridiculous!" snorted Congressman Ring, and rapidly in-breathed himself behind the evening paper.

Smoke Inhalation

Expels Catarrh

Send Ten Cents for Trial Outfit

There must be readers suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold, for they must realize that sooner or later this may lead to serious deafness and injury to the system in general.

Sound advice is to stop taking medicine into the stomach, spraying the throat, or putting salves in the nose; none of which leads far back enough into the head and lungs. Dr. J. W. Blosser, a physician, and a successful specialist in catarrh, is the discoverer of a pleasant, direct method that can be used by man, woman or child.

His remedy is not an ointment, spray, salve, or tablet, but is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette, and inhale the vapor into all the air passages. It contains no tobacco, even though it is used in the same manner.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is amazingly effective in all forms of catarrh, bronchial irritation, catarrhal headache, asthma and ear troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it.

Send your name with ten cents in coin or stamps for a trial outfit (month's supply, either form, one dollar), and we will send you a complete course of the Remedy for smoking in a pipe, a neat little pipe, and also some medicinal herbs, so you can decide which form you like best.—Adv.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We are 19. We are good chums and have been such for the past two years. Two years ago, at a reception, we met two young men, one of whom was then in the army and the other in the navy. They were the only ones who were not formally engaged, they wish us to marry before they leave for France, and they intend to leave soon. Now, Miss Fairfax, we wish your advice as to whether this would be the right thing to do. Our parents do not object, but they also await your reply as to the propriety of the affair.

K. and B.

Propriety does not enter into the case at all. Since you have the consent of your parents you have nothing to hinder you or urge you on except your own real feelings. Don't enter on these war marriages as a little adventure. Don't let excitement and romance make you to a step which you will regret before you realize. But if you and your sweethearts are deeply and truly for each other, go ahead, and God bless you.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 39 and engaged to a man 32. Now, Miss Fairfax, what I want to know is, this man says he loves me very much, but do you think a man can love a girl very much when he is all the time making a fool of her before his friends? He doesn't like the way I talk nor the way I fix my hair, and, of course, he hurts my feelings and we fight a lot. He never says he is sorry, and I always have to make friends with him first.

Nora.

A making woman is bad enough, goodness knows—but, sagging man is unbearable. If the girl he loves cannot manage to do anything so as to meet with a man's approval, I wonder how she is going to satisfy his whims when she is his wife. If a man is selfish and tyrannical and condescending, he is not a man at all. He is a child, and he is likely to make her self-conscious and unhappy. Are you sure you have told him exactly what you feel? Perhaps you are not sure, perhaps you don't make any effort to make yourself agreeable or to improve your manners. An ambitious man sometimes does love a girl of whom he is not very proud, and then unless she is clever enough to improve herself— with himself for caring for a girl who seems and with the girl for not trying to live up to his best ideals of her. Look to yourself, my dear. Perhaps a little improvement of your manners would be to your advantage.

REV. DR. WILLIAMS BACK:

SPEAKS AT CHURCH TONIGHT

Rev. Dr. J. F. Williams, pastor of the First Baptist church, returned Tuesday from San Diego, Cal., where he went last week to officiate at the marriage of Miss Augusta Bright and Edwin Davis.

Rev. Dr. Williams will conduct his Bible training class tonight and speak at the prayer meeting immediately following the recent Baptist state convention at Dallas, at which he was a messenger.

14 Years Ago Today

From The Herald of this Date, 1903.

MR. OLGA KOHLBERG, of El Paso, before the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, today made a plea for compulsory education, urging the women to work for that end, citing the words of Jacob Hils, that as we mold the children in our great cities, so we shape the destiny of the state.

John Anderson, formerly of the Anderson Machine company of this city, has just gone to the City of Mexico, where he will accept the position of general manager for the Intercontinental railroad of Mexico. Mr. Anderson has been in El Paso for a good many years.

A. Ringer, a prominent cattleman of Hillsboro, N. M., is at the Ziegler. Mr. Ringer came direct from the great gold fields near Hillsboro and says that excitement is still running high and that the country for miles around is literally alive with prospectors who have rushed in since the discovery has been made public.

Through the death of his uncle for whom he was named, Bill Phelps Greer, of El Paso, the 16 year old son of Nat Greer, of the Star stable, has inherited a fortune. Bill Phelps Greer, which consists of a farm near Howell, for which he recently refused an offer of $100,000, two farms on the Brazos river in this state, and a stock range in Arizona, are conservatively estimated as worth $150,000.

Governor Peabody of Colorado at noon yesterday issued a proclamation declaring Cripple Creek, Colo., under martial law. He cites the blowing up of a portion of the Victor mine and other acts of lawlessness, and declares it impossible to control the camp by ordinary, peaceable methods.

D. L. Gallier, a stockman from Tucson, is in the city.

A. Starring, a mining man from Cananea, is a guest of the Angelus.

Jose M. Gandara, a prominent attorney from Chihuahua, is at the Grand.

Panama has signed the Isthmian canal treaty as drawn up. There were no amendments.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Foster, of Hanover, Kansas, are in the city on a visit to their daughter, Mrs. H. V. Bowden, and will spend the winter here.

Millard Patterson and Maj. W. J. Fewell left this morning for Maj. Fewell's ranch, about 25 miles west of El Paso, where they will spend the day hunting quail.

Mrs. T. Davis Percher and daughter, Ellisor, are on their way to South Carolina to spend the holidays. They will visit relatives in Charleston and Camden, and Miss Percher will make a short stay in Washington.

OFF TO THE WAR!

When Women Fight.

The fact that Russian women formed a regiment called the "Battalion of Death," which was the first regiment of the kind in the history of civilization, has stirred up the question whether our women could form a line of defense for the United States.

Every woman's burdens in the war are lightened when she turns to the right medicine. If her existence is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, she will find relief and emancipation from her troubles in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run-down," she finds new life and strength. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic and nerve which was discovered and used by an eminent physician for many years in "female complaints" and weaknesses. For young girls just entering womanhood, for women at critical times; in bearing-down sensations, pains, ulceration, inflammation, and "Prescription" will surely benefit. This herbal tonic is prepared with glycerin.

The "Prescription" contains no alcohol, and is now sold in tablet form by almost all druggists for 60 cents. Send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for large trial package of tablets.—Adv.

Many Women in this Condition Regain Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Convincing Proof of This Fact.

Ridgway, Penn. — "I suffered from female trouble with backache and pain in my side for over seven months so I could not do any of my work. I was treated by three different doctors and was getting discouraged when my sister-in-law told me how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped her. I decided to try it, and it restored my health, so I now do all of my housework which is not light as I have a little boy three years old."

—Mrs. O. M. Rimes, Ridgway, Penn.

Mrs. Lindsey Now Keeps House For Seven.

Tennille, Ga. — "I want to tell you how much I have benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. About eight years ago I got in such a low state of health I was unable to keep house for three in the family. I had dull, tired, dizzy feelings, cold feet and hands nearly all the time and could scarcely sleep at all. The doctor said I had a severe case of ulceration and without an operation I would always be an invalid, but I told him I wanted to wait awhile. Our druggist advised my husband to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has entirely cured me. Now I keep house for seven and work in the garden some, too. I am so thankful I got this medicine. I feel as though it saved my life and have recommended it to others and they have been benefited."
